Surgery bid to stop patients not turning up

A GP practice has introduced a new appointment system to tackle the problem of high numbers of patients failing to turn up.

The Clements and Christmas Maltings surgery, based in Greenfields Way and Camps Road, Haverhill, and with a branch surgery in Kedington, introduced the new system last Monday, March 2.

The system was introduced to reduce the number of patients failing to turn up for appointments without notifying the surgery.

According to Dr Fiona Andrews, a partner at the practice, the number was as high as 350 missed appointments a month, or 85 in a week.

She said the problem was that people were having to book appointments far in advance – even up to four weeks – because they couldn't get one sooner. They were then either forgetting their appointment or recovering in the meantime.

This has been reduced under the new system to just five working days.

New appointments are released each working day at 8am and 1pm.

The surgery has around 17,800

HANNAH MIRSKY

patients, who are treated by the equivalent of seven full time GPs. This is around 2,500 patients for each doctor.

The average number of patients per full time GP in West Suffolk in 2014 was just 1,558, according to figures released by GP Online based on census data and patient populations from the Health and Social Care Information Centre.

Two doctors are expected to leave the Clements and Christmas Maltings practice at the end of March, and Dr Andrews says they have not had the applicants to fill the roles.

Cllr Pat Hanlon said there was a desperate shortage of GP surgeries in the town.

"There's no doubt about it, there's a crisis here," he said.

He blames the situation on the closure of the town's walk-in centre in July, 2012, which put more pressure on GPs.

Diana Andre, manager at Happy Faces pre-school, is a patient at Clements Surgery.

She said she spent a month trying to secure an appointment under the old booking system.

"After trying numerous times to get an appointment to see a doctor over the past month and each time being told my only option was to 'sit and wait' I gave up," she said.

She thinks the new system will improve the situation, but added: "There seems to be a shortage of GPs in Haverhill."

But Sarah-Jane Hounsell, a patient at Christmas Maltings, said the new system seemed to put pressure on staff when she visited the surgery on Monday. "The staff are running around like headless chickens," she said.

Dr Fiona Andrews said that once the new system is established the practice will carry out a patient consultation.

A Care Quality Commission report published on February 19 acknowledged a shortage of GPs but said "the practice had adopted alternative ways to meet patients' needs". The surgery was rated "good" overall.

Once upon a time . . .

SNOW White had clearly bumped into a scary looking character at Kedington Primary School last Thursday . . .

But it was all good fun – and part of the school's celebrations for World Book Day.

Dad's challenges to help heart research

HANNAH MIRSKY

A FATHER of two is taking on what he calls his "mid-life crisis challenges" to raise money for charities battling heart disease.

Carl Mynott, 39, an insurance broker and children's book writer who lives in Piper's Close, Haverhill, is planning to do four long runs and two hikes over a period of eight months.

He chose to take on the challenge after his mother Phyllis, 69, survived a heart attack in early January.

"I had already planned to do some running this year, so that was an impetus to get out and do it," he said. "There are quite a few charities whose research helped her, so I wanted to do some running for them."

Carl, who has lived in Haverhill all his life, is fundraising for the British Heart Foundation, the Papworth Hospital Charity and Heart Research UK.

So far, he has sponsorship of £465.

"It would be really great if I could get the charities £1,000 each," he said.

Carl's set of challenges will begin on Sunday, April 12, with the Haverhill 10k run, and in May he will take part in the Great Outdoors Challenge, an 175-mile hike from coast-to-coast across the Scottish Highlands.

For the hike, he will carry all his own equipment on his back and spend 10 nights wild camping.

On June 27, he will participate in the Great Barrow Challenge, a 13-mile run across the Suffolk countryside.

After that, he will take on the National Three Peaks Challenge with a friend, climbing the highest mountains in the UK - Snowdon, Ben Nevis and Scafell Pike - in 24 hours on July 10.

He will run the Farnham Marathon in the North Downs in the South of England on September 13.

The final challenge, on December 3, will be a 31-mile run that he has devised himself along Suffolk's Stour Valley.

"I've not really heard of anyone doing quite as much or perhaps as varied a challenge inside of eight months before," said Carl.

He added: "The reason I'm doing so much is mainly because I wanted it to be a challenge where there was a really good chance that I wouldn't make it.

"I wanted to maximise the chance of making more money, I wanted to give myself the chance of making an impact."

In spite of the tasks he is undertaking, Carl is not an experienced runner.

"Before the end of December I hadn't really run at all," he said. "I had tried a bit in the past, but I couldn't get on with it."

Since December he has been training hard, doing two shorter runs on weekday evenings, and a longer one at the weekend. His longest run so far has been nine miles.

Carl lives with his wife Linda, and his two children Hope, 5, and Ashley,

4. "It's going to be a bit of a running widow situation with my wife!" said Carl.

He does have more hiking experience, and has completed the Three Peaks challenge before.

"I'm quite confident about the walking challenges, but in terms of the running challenges, that's going to be the hardest," he said. "I'm quite worried about that."

"I'm putting a lot of effort in. It's going to be really hard. If I'm putting the effort in it would be really great if people could give a bit of money."

Police appeal after vandals target vehicle

A CAR had its tyres slashed and bodywork scratched in Haverhill early last week.

The damage took place overnight between 3pm on Monday, March 2 and 7.30am on Tuesday, March 3, while the Citroen was parked in the town's Park Road.

Slashes of three to four inches were made in the vehicle's offside tyres and its nearside bodywork was scratched.

Police estimate the damage at over £300.

A resident on the road saw two men leaning against the vehicle at around 8.15pm, and later heard a crash.

Anyone who saw anything suspicious should call the police on 101.

Pre-school to hold quiz and nearly new sale

A HAVERHILL pre-school is holding a fundraising quiz and sale.

The quiz at Little Wonders Pre-School Parkway, based in the Castle Playing Fields on School Lane, will be held on Friday, March 13, at 7pm for a 7.30pm start. Tickets cost £2, and the quiz is open to all. Teams can be up to six people.

The pre-school's fundraising committee is also organising a nearly-new sale of children's goods.

It will take place at the pre-school from 10am to 3pm on Saturday, March 21.

The pre-school received an unannounced visit from Ofsted inspectors on January 23. The report, based on the inspection, rated it "good".

Date of town's summer bash announced

THE date for this year's Haverhill Summer Bash has been announced.

The bash will take place on Sunday, July 19, at Haverhill's Recreation Ground.

Events planned for the event include a baby show, cake show, flower show, dog show and car show, as well as circus entertainment and sporting activities. More events will be announced over the coming weeks.

The organisers of the bash are currently seeking business sponsorship for the event and volunteers to help out. Applications for business pitches are now open.

Email haverhillsummerbash@outlook.com to find out more.

High school students get ready for musical showstopper

A MUSICAL which high school students have been preparing for since November is only weeks away.

A cast of almost 80 students at Samuel Ward High School are rehearsing their production of Our House, which will be performed at the school next week.

The show tells the story of Joe Taylor, who breaks into a warehouse on the eve of his 16th birthday, and the events that follow, which change his life forever.

It is the second show directed by head of drama Matthew Russell, and the students involved range from Year 7 to Year 13.

Mrs Annette Standing has designed and created a set which involves revolving doors and a real car. Euphoria Sound and Lighting, which worked on the school's production of We Will Rock You, will return for Our House.

The two separate casts include Samuel Ward's regular stars such as Ben Jordan, Molly Wickington, Beth Veasey and Jess Bush. Our House introduces more of Samuel Ward's talent in Jason Carpenter, Megan Sentance, Scott Strong, Wes Ruthen, Oliver Kemp, Holly Barker, Megan Wagstaff, Ryan Abbott and Tom Quarrell.

The show will be performed on Tuesday, March 24, at 7.30pm, and from Wednesday, March 25, to Saturday, March 28 at 2pm and 7.30pm. Tickets are available from the student window in the school or by calling Samuel Ward's main office on (01440) 761511. They cost £8 for adults, £5 concessions, and £22.50 for a family ticket (two adults and two children).

Man, 38, charged after fire

POLICE have charged a 38-year-old man with three offences following a disturbance.

Pawel Rozanski of The Keep, Haverhill, has been charged with arson with intent/reckless as to whether life was endangered, assault by beating and threatening a person with a blade in a public place.

Police were called to an address in The Keep just after 6.30pm on Monday, March 9, after reports of a man behaving in a threatening manner.

Officers requested assistance from Suffolk Fire and Rescue at 7.25pm to extinguish a fire that was deliberately started in a first floor bedroom at the property.

Two crews from Haverhill Fire Station and one crew from Clare Fire Station extinguished the blaze by 8.30pm.

Rozanski appeared at Bury St Edmunds' Magistrates Court yesterday morning. He has been remanded in custody for a hearing at Ipswich Crown Court on March 24.

Have your say on town centre

CONSULTATION has begun on the Haverhill town centre masterplan.

Residents are being asked about the broad "issues and options" they would like to see addressed in the masterplan, as part of the first phase of consultation.

This phase began on Monday and will run until Friday, April 17.

You can pick up a copy of the consultation questionnaire at Haverhill House, Haverhill Library and Haverhill Arts Centre, or fill it in online at www.onehaverhill.com.

Issues covered include the type and mix of uses that could be accommodated in the town centre, how people move around the town centre, and ways that town centre streets and spaces can be made more attractive.

HANNAH MIRSKY

The consultation is being run by ONE Haverhill, an independent partnership that brings together different groups and resources in Haverhill.

Sarah Howard, chairman of ONE Haverhill board, said: "Please take time to fill out this questionnaire. It takes around 15 minutes and is far more than just a tick box exercise and I would urge people to take the opportunity to give their views in as much detail as possible. I think many of us feel strongly that improvements need to be made to our town centre and this will inform potential investors, local authorities and others to what we want as a community in Haverhill."

Consultation events running in Haverhill include a drop-in session at the arts centre on Thursday, March 26, from 10am to 6pm, and a stand in Sainsbury's foyer on Tuesday, March 31 from 9am until 12pm.

Independent planning experts David Lock Associates will have a stall on the Market on Friday, March 27 and Saturday, March 28, where they will provide information and hear people's views.

The feedback will help create a draft plan, which residents will have a chance to comment on during phase two of the consultation, which runs from Monday, June 8, to Friday, July 17.

The aim is to finish the masterplan in September. It will provide a detailed framework for town centre development.

Fiction and fun on World Book Day

BOOKWORMS across Haverhill's schools have been indulging in fictional-themed fun in honour of World Book Day.

At Westfield Primary Academy, foundation pupils read with their parents and picked their own costumes from the dressing up box.

Parents of different nationalities also read to reception class children in Polish, Russian and Portuguese.

Jill Lightfoot, deputy headteacher, said: "We love our books and our reading results are good, so it shows whatever we are doing is working."

The school's older children spent the day writing joke books, which will be sold for Comic Relief, and a book swap also took place.

At Stepping Stones pre-school at Coupals Primary Academy, children and staff dressed up for the day.

The pre-school was visited by the Mayor of Haverhill, Cllr Roger Andre, who gave out a prize to the most original book character costume.

The mayor also visited Happy Faces pre-school, where he joined the children in a special World Book Day "Big Little Rhyme-Along".

DEBRA FOX AND HANNAH MIRSKY

Happy Faces pre-school manager Diana Andre said: "The children have been learning lots of nursery rhymes in the lead up to World Book Day."

At Clements Primary School, children had a book themed assembly, collaborated on a whole school story, made bookmarks and listened to stories.

Headteacher Caroline Zwierzchowska-Dod said: "It's lovely to see so many of our school - children and adults alike - taking part in this celebration."

Children at Kedington Primary School dressed up and were treated to a book-themed dance workshop from a West End choreographer on February 27.

There was more dressing up at Blois Meadow Day Nursery in Steeple Bumpstead. Alison Midgley, the nursery's owner and manager, said: "The response was fantastic."

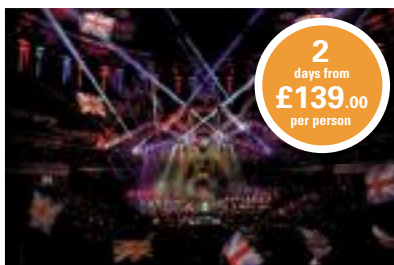

"We had pirates, the King of Narnia, nursery rhyme and fairy tale characters and a Gruffalo. I was the Grand High Witch and my deputy Helen made a fantastic Cat in the Hat!"

Thank you for not blaming us all . . .

REGARDING the article in last week's Weekly News 'Ban Dogs from Parks . . .'

I don't take my little dog to East Town Park anymore because far too many people let their dogs off their leads and I have had too many nasty experiences.

However, I would just like you to pass on my thanks to "the council spokesman" (no name given) for his comments regarding the need to balance the needs of responsible dog owners who walk their dogs in Haverhill . . . at last, someone sticking up for us responsible dog owners.

I get so cross when the articles regarding dog fouling seem to tar us all with the same brush.

We are NOT the same and should NOT be coupled with the disgusting dog owners who just let their dogs mess anywhere and then just walk away and leave it.

Elaine Parmenter
Gannet Close
Haverhill

How about we ban councillors?

I HAVE an even better idea than banning dogs from parks in Haverhill.

How about we ban councillors? We have enough anti-dog brigade without any councillors adding their penneth worth.

I met Cllr Byrne a few years ago and I could tell she didn't like dogs straight away.

Our parks are for everybody to enjoy. Most people probably only think to go out walking on a nice sunny day, whereas us hardcore dog walkers are out daily in all weathers (normally more than once).

How about we ban the idiots who leave their rubbish strewn about, including food and broken glass bottles?

I find both are an extreme nuisance; my dogs try to eat the food, which can then make them ill or cut their pads on the glass, both invariably requiring a trip to the vets. Two weeks ago one of mine had to have an anaesthetic and three stitches because he had cut his pad. I always pick up behind my three, and invariably others too.

Most responsible dog owners do – it's just the selfish idiots that don't clean up and it's not fair to discriminate against all dog owners because of this.

On occasions where I have seen people not pick up behind their dog I have then reminded them they have forgotten.

There are grass areas alongside the path down my road and there is lots of poo that isn't picked up – but I have my own remedy, when I discover who it is I shall return their forgotten deposit through their letterbox UNBAGGED.

There are NOT enough dog bins around the Wilsey / Turpins Ride estates.

The one bin opposite Osprey Road is always full and if you are walking down towards Turpins Ride the next nearest bin is at the entrance to the East Town Park, unless you detour to Millfields Park.

There are actually very few bins, dog or otherwise, when you walk

No smoking campaign to be launched

A HAVERHILL school is playing host to the launch of a new youth anti-smoking campaign for West Suffolk.

The campaign, called CTRL Z, will be officially launched at Castle Manor High School tomorrow.

Members of the campaign's team will be carrying out carbon monoxide breath tests to educate students about the dangers of smoking, and talking to them about the harm cigarettes cause.

Nationwide, only 3 per cent of young people aged 11 to 15 smoke, but in Haverhill that figure is slightly higher, at 3.3 per cent, increasing to 4.2 per cent in the Haverhill South Ward.

CTRL Z, named after the undo function on a keyboard, is a branch of Live Well Suffolk, which provides the county's healthy lifestyle services. It aims to prevent young people taking up smoking, and encourage those who do smoke to cut down.

The CTRL Z team are looking to recruit young people to become anti-tobacco campaigners. They will receive training and help to deliver the message about the dangers of smoking.

They are also encouraging schools and youth clubs to sign up to the campaign.

Demolition decision deferred by council

HANNAH MIRSKY

COUNCILLORS discussed the future of the Gurteen buildings in Haverhill town centre at a meeting last Thursday – but couldn't reach a final decision.

At the meeting of the development control committee of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, committee members unanimously voted to defer a decision on demolishing five of the listed buildings.

They chose not to make the decision until the consultation for the Haverhill town centre masterplan, currently just beginning, is completed in September.

The most heated debate was about the proposed demolition of the north light sheds, a former sewing factory with an unusual roofline, to let more light into an office development in another of the buildings.

Cllr Sara Mildmay-White said about the north light sheds: "It's a very, very distinctive building and a huge heritage asset for Haverhill. I understand about wanting to bring light into [the offices] but there are plenty of offices that do not have natural light on all sides."

Haverhill resident John Burns said: "There is no justification to demolish the Grade II listed north light sheds, which are considered to be unusual and probably unique for East Anglia being part of an extremely interesting Victorian mill complex.

CHANGES: Developers want to demolish buildings surrounding the Gurteen factory

Cllr Maureen Byrne, who also serves on Haverhill Town Council, said: "We should try and retain [the sheds] as a part of our heritage."

"We do respect Gurteen as being very influential in our town, but at the end of the day, it's our future and our children's future."

The committee said they would approve a new proposal for the demolition of two of the less historically significant buildings. They agreed that redevelopment would provide significant benefits for the town centre.

Cllr Peter Stevens said: "If we do not give this clear message to say that we are in favour of the demolition we may miss the boat, and I urge Haverhill to make sure this happens and hold your nerve. Don't throw the baby out with the bathwater."

CLEANING UP: Colin Poole, Haverhill's town clerk, centre, with other council staff

Town gears up for a clean up!

HANNAH MIRSKY

STAFF at businesses in Haverhill are preparing to make their area sparkle during the town's Community Clean-up.

Staff at Hughes Electrical in the High Street have pledged to clear the walkway behind their shop for the clean-up, taking place on March 20 and 21.

Hughes Electrical's branch manager Sam Potter said: "We always try and get involved in local things so when I saw the leaflet come through for the clean-up, I thought 'let's get involved.'"

He says the walkway behind the shop often gets untidy.

There is also graffiti in the walkway, and Sam and a colleague have had to clear it up before when dead leaves blocked drains there, causing flooding, which Sam is committed to the "community" side of the clean-up as well.

READY FOR ACTION: Salesman Peter Rastall from Hughes Electrical

"It's the community coming together aspect," he said. "It's a way of making people generally aware of keeping the town tidy. "And it's all about keeping people in our high street."

Colin Poole, the town clerk, who is organising the Community Clean-up said: "It's really great that Hughes Electrical are leading the way, and we hope that more businesses will join in on the day."

"It just goes to show that you don't need to cross town to find somewhere to clear up – you can start where you are."

Staff at Haverhill Tesco are also preparing to get involved, along with the Air Cadets.

Litter pickers, protective gloves, bin bags and cleaning materials will be available at the Haverhill Arts Centre from 10.30am to 12.30pm on March 20 and 21.

For more information on getting involved, visit www.cb9.co.uk or www.facebook.com/givecb9ashine.

Fishing kit worth £725 stolen from garden shed

FISHING kit worth hundreds of pounds has been stolen from a garden shed in Haverhill.

The burglary took place between 12.30am and 1.30am on the night of March 1 at an address in Castle Lane.

The burglar stole 18 fishing rods and tackle and reels, worth £600 altogether.

A flotation jacket worth £125 and various other fishing paraphernalia were also stolen.

The victim was woken by a scraping sound at the time of the incident, but did not realise he had been burgled until later.

The burglary follows a spate of incidents in which fishing gear, tools and bikes have been stolen from sheds and garages in Haverhill.

A police spokesman urged the public to properly secure their sheds and garages.

"Rather than alarms or CCTV, install a good lock, that you can find on all reputable websites," he said. "If there is anything valuable in the shed, lock that with a good lock."

The police also advise security marking valuable items and fitting bars or mesh to the inside of windows.

Residents can also fit outdoor security lights, and cut back shrubs and bushes so they do not provide hiding places for thieves.

MP welcomes pothole repairs

MORE than £2 million will be spent on road improvements in Suffolk, it has been announced.

Matthew Hancock, who is the MP for the West of the county, has welcomed the spend, which is a "priority" in his constituency, he said.

Six billion pounds will be spent across the country over the next six years to make the roads safer.

Mr Hancock said: "It has been a priority of mine to get the problem of potholes sorted."

"I know they have been an on-going nuisance to my constituents so I have been liaising with the council to help make our roads safer and easier to travel along by tackling potholes."

The minister has praised Suffolk County Council to committing the money to the repairs – which he has said will help restore more than 2,500 potholes.

He added: "I will follow this plan closely to ensure local residents can finally be rid of the nuisance of potholes."

Come and make use of your centre!

THE head of community partnership at St Nicholas Hospice Care spoke at a council meeting on Tuesday night about getting the Haverhill's community involved at the Burton Centre.

Moirá Welham gave a presentation to Haverhill Town Council highlighting the services offered at the Burton Centre, which range from a cafe to dance classes to bereavement counselling.

She emphasised statistics from the 2011 census which suggest that 4,000 people in Haverhill would describe their life as severely or slightly limited by illness, and all of those people could make use of the Hospice's facilities.

She said: "It's for anybody with a life-limiting illness, from the point of diagnosis, but equally for the community as a whole. Most people know someone who has suffered from an illness."

She added: "Currently engagement with the community is quite low."

Councillors made suggestions

about services which could be offered to the community.

Cllr Maureen Byrne suggested youth bereavement counselling, as she knew someone who had found it hard to access this service, and yoga, as "people find it extremely helpful in dealing with stress and anxiety".

Cllr Pat Hanlon suggested more provision should be made for people with mental health problems, as there are few services available to them.

The Hospice has recently held a community engagement event on February 19, and a quiz on February 27. They will soon be holding a stall on the market to engage with the people of Haverhill.

Ms Welham said after the meeting: "The word 'hospice', people associate with dying and death, but it's about trying to live the fullest life you can."

CHAMPIONS: Winners of Haverhill Schools quicksticks hockey competition from St Felix Primary: Lucie Swann, Poppy Boreham, Jessica Chamberlain, Rohan Firat, Callum Stone and Toros Yagir

Hockey champs prepare to play at county final

YEAR Six students at St Felix Primary School fought off competition to win a hockey tournament - and now they're preparing for the Suffolk final.

Lucie Swann, Poppy Boreham, Jessica Chamberlain, Rohan Firat, Callum Stone, Toros Yagir and George Shannon from St Felix took part in a tournament at Samuel Ward High School on Wednesday, February 25.

They narrowly beat the team in second place, Coupsals Primary A team, to the victory.

"It was a nailbiting finish," said Wendy Yagir, who works in the office at St Felix and is the mum of team member Toros. "There was only one point in it and we got it."

The other schools competing were New Cangle Community Primary School, Westfield Primary Academy and Place Farm Primary Academy.

The players did not have much hockey experience before, but are now preparing to represent Haverhill at a county final of the Suffolk School Games at St Joseph's school in Ipswich on March 26.

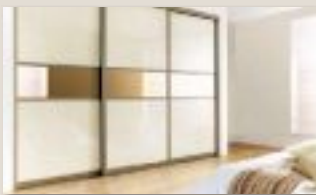

"We have got a really determined bunch of sports fanatics in our Year Six at the moment," said Ms Yagir.

Partnership bid to attract investment

HAVERHILL is one of the fastest growing towns in Suffolk.

This is the message from St Edmundsbury Borough and Forest Heath District Councils, following the launch of a new investment pack to boast about the area.

The partner authorities have launched a pack which showcases West Suffolk as the place to be for growth, job opportunities and investment.

Cllr Alaric Pugh is cabinet member for economic growth on St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

He said: "Experian research identified West Suffolk as the top place in the UK for small and rapidly growing enterprises and there is potential in abundance for product development, expansion and jobs creation to be further achieved through investment.

"West Suffolk is the smart choice for developing a business."

Herbert Group, Sanofi and Sarand are only some of the businesses recognised by the councils as driving Haverhill's success.

The development of Haverhill Research Park and the Epicentre hub have also been highlighted as a factor for the town and its estimated growth.

Paul Donno, chair of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, said: "We are so fortunate that Haverhill is a vibrant town with good road links to the rest of the country and, of course, we benefit from our strong connections with Cambridge and having a 'CB9' postcode to identify us with the city."

The promotional pack, which also celebrates achievements in Brandon, Bury St Edmunds, Clare, Mildenhall and Newmarket, can be used by existing businesses, as well as providing information for those considering moving to the region.

Cllr Pugh added: "West Suffolk is fast becoming a powerhouse of enterprise with world class industry leaders in manufacturing, food and drink production, electronics, the service sector, engineering, the equine industry and pharmaceuticals."

Stars in their Eyes singer reunites with pianist

A SINGER who performed on talent show Stars in their Eyes in the 1990s is preparing for a concert with the pianist she worked with on the show.

Patrice Taylor, who has lived in Hamlet Road, Haverhill, for 17 years, will be performing with pianist Trevor Brown in Kedington this month for the first time since the two worked together on the hit TV programme.

Patrice, originally from Jacksonville, Florida in the US, said: "He's such a marvellous musician, it will be like waking up on a cloud."

She says the only reason she had not worked with him again is because she tends to work with more local artists.

She said about her time on the show: "It was marvellous. They were top notch musicians. Because I danced in my audition they let me sing and dance with it. It was magical. Usually they don't let people dance."

Trevor is currently working with the Syd Lawrence Orchestra, and has worked on TV broadcasts such as the Royal Variety Performances and BAFTA awards as well as Stars in Their Eyes.

Their concert will be a jazz evening held on Saturday, March 21, at 7.30pm in Kedington Community Centre. Tickets cost £10 including a tapas supper, and there will be a bar serving ale, cocktails, wine and soft drinks.

Patrice and Trevor will be joined by Bernie Hodgkins on the double bass.

animal attraction: Bear-baiting in the Georgian era. As the advert promised, "the Great Muscovy Bear" was to be "baited at the Wrestler-Inn in the petty Cury, Cambridge"

Bear-baiting, bodysnatching and burning people alive? It's all part of Cambridge's hidden (and rather horrible) past, as Dr David Barrowclough, who lives in Ely, reveals in an intriguing new book. Emma Higginbotham meets him.

Digging up our horrible

HIGHWAY STAR: A contemporary sketch of Dick Turpin – here starting at the sight of a gallows – on his way to York. He was eventually to be hanged there. His right leg was seen to tremble as he stepped on to the gallows, where he shortly after threw himself from the ladder, instantly breaking his neck

Head of state that ended up on a pole

"THE story of Oliver Cromwell's head is a real Cambridge story. That's it there," says David, pointing to the photograph. "It's hideous! You can see he's got that traditional puritanical haircut. . ."

Here's the story in a nutshell: Cromwell died in 1658, and was buried with full honours in Westminster Abbey. But when the monarchy was restored, Charles II, bent on revenge for his father's death, ordered Cromwell's body to be disinterred.

In 1661, his corpse was dug up, hanged on a gibbet, then his head was cut off and impaled on a spike at Westminster Hall. There it stayed for 20 years – until it blew off in a storm. A sentry claimed it as a trophy, took it home, and hid it up his chimney.

Over the next two centuries, the head changed hands between the likes of a Swiss-French collector of curiosities, a comic actor and a wealthy goldsmith. It finally ended up with the Wilkinson family, who eventually decided that it should be reinterred.

David writes: "[Horace Wilkinson] contacted Cromwell's old college in Cambridge, Sidney Sussex, and on 25 March 1960 it was buried in a secret location in the college, within the oak box in which the Wilkinson family had kept the head since 1815. The only witnesses to the burial were members of the family and representatives of the college."

APPEARANCES can be deceptive. Cambridge may seem quaint and genteel, a hotbed of nothing much hotter than a warm scone and a nice cup of Earl Grey, but delve into its murky history and you'll uncover all manner of guts and gore, from poisonings and animal baiting to burnings and witchcraft.

It's all recorded in a fascinating (and very readable) new book, Bloody British History: Cambridge, by Wolfson College fellow Dr David Barrowclough, who lives in Ely.

And appearances are deceptive here too: super-smiley and quick to laugh, David is the last person you'd expect to be a fan of the macabre – yet the archaeologist says he has absolutely revelled in digging up the city's dirty underside.

Part of a series about the dark history of British cities, the book is packed with eye-opening (and often eye-watering) tales from the past. But while some may be familiar – town and gown rioting, author Lawrence Sterne's 'bodysnatched' corpse turning up at a university anatomy class, or the Cambridge Spies doing their dastardly deeds – others are likely to be completely new to you.

Did you know, for example, that murderous highwayman Dick Turpin used to frequent a dodgy pub on Castle Hill? Or that Petty Cury was a hotspot for bear-baiting, while bull-baiting was a regular event on Peas Hill? Or that the famous Bumps has seen both rowers and spectators being impaled, drowned, and struck by lightning?

David grins when I mention this one: "Yes, I shouldn't laugh, should I?" he chuckles. "There are lots of books about Cambridge already, but a lot of them, not being rude, they do repeat things time and time again, and I was trying to dig out things that hadn't really been written about before."

The affable academic, who two years ago wrote a similar book about Ely, spent around 18 months doing his research.

He busied himself in the archives of the University Library, "just searching through old records, diaries and newspaper collections; once you start digging into one, you get a reference to something else, and you chase that reference up – so it's a detective story in that way."

"I knew some of it, but I didn't know all of it," he adds. "I didn't know about Dick Turpin; he's normally either associated with London or York, but Cambridge was a place he came and hid out when it got a bit hot for him."

"And I didn't know about the Three Tuns Inn, which was basically a thieves' den of iniquity." Now demolished, the notorious Castle Hill boozier crops up several times in the book: "It was a favourite haunt of his, and of other highwaymen, and of the vagabonds that went with it."

Does he have a favourite story?

"I thought the one about the chimney sweeps was interesting," he says.

"All the colleges keep their silver and valuables locked up, and several colleges found that they'd had their valuables stolen from inside a locked room – and they couldn't work out how this was happening."

"So they issued a reward, and basically some nosy neighbours thought that one of their neighbours was a bit more prosperous than he should be, and that led them to suspect this guy."

The man in question was a chimney sweep, "and in the process of cleaning all the college chimneys, he'd worked out how to get down into different rooms. He teamed up with a locksmith, and another guy who's described as a gypsy, whose job was to help them carry it, and they'd all climb down these chimneys at night, into these locked rooms, carry away the swag and then sell it. Two of them hung for it and the third one got away."

There does, I say, seem to be an awful lot of hanging in the book: "You were hanged for virtually everything," nods David. And 'pressing' too? "Pressing is horrible," he says. "That came about because, if you didn't plead at all to a charge, they couldn't confiscate your lands. Most people knew they were going to hang for whatever crime it was anyway, so they'd rather just say nothing: they'd end up being pressed to death, but their family would inherit their land and property."

"They would be laid down on the floor, with their legs and arms tied, and then they'd put a board on them and put on stones, and iron, and they'd keep adding to it. It was a horrible way to die. It's hard to imagine, actually."

Writing about death is nothing new for David.

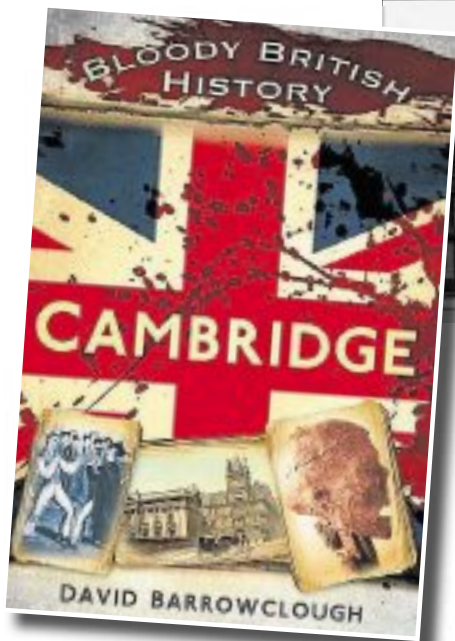

Growing up in the north-west, he had a boyhood fascination with the buried past ("I've always been interested in searching for King Arthur"), and came to Cambridge as a mature student in the 1990s to read archaeology at Wolfson.

He followed this with a PhD, then worked at the BBC, writing for archaeology and art programmes, "but the BBC's a young person's game really, and I got to the point where I was the oldest person in the room. . ."

He returned to his alma mater and, now in his late 40s, he's a fellow as well as director of studies at Wolfson. "It's good fun," he says. "The students keep you young and on your toes."

Looking at his jolly face, I can't help remarking that he doesn't look like someone who'd write a book as dark as this.

"Well I have a side interest in it," admits David. "I have a little collection of my own at home – mummies and things like that. Not

people!" he adds quickly. "I've got an Egyptian mummified cat. I found it in a car boot sale, believe it or not. There's a particular way the Egyptians bandaged things up, with a sort of criss-cross, and I thought 'That looks right ...'" How much was it? "About 100 quid."

"And I've got a skull." Human this time? "Yes, it's an old anatomical one, from the early 20th century – they were often Indian people." So could it have been from one of the bodysnatchers' skeletons? "I'm afraid it couldn't! But goodness knows where they come from, to be honest."

So what was the most shocking story he came across for the book? "The Burwell fire was bad," he says.

It certainly was: in 1727, a group of travelling players put on a performance in one of the village's barns – more than 100 men, women and children crammed in to watch and, once they were in, somebody nailed the door shut, "probably to stop people coming in who weren't paying; a stupid thing to do."

See the book for the full story, but essentially it caught fire – and nearly everybody inside burned alive. "More than 70 people died, and in a sense it's weird that people don't know about that."

Were there any stories that particularly touched him? "I was sad about the suicide of the Reverend Samuel Reeve at Caius," says David, referring to a senior proctor who hanged himself in a store-room, and was n't discovered for five months.

"They hadn't really missed him! But I didn't want to make too much of suicide in the book. I don't think it makes for good reading, particularly."

"And I suppose the burned alive story," he says, of the last man in Cambridge to be publicly executed in Cambridge, John Green. Back in the 1860s, a drunken Green killed a prostitute by beating her up then stuffing her into the furnace at the malt house where he worked.

"It's horrible enough to be murdered, but the actual sense of burning alive has a particular horror to it," says David.

So Cambridge IS, in fact, a hotbed of barbarity and inhumanity?

"Well the weird thing is, everyone says Cambridge is one of the safest places to live," he laughs. "Students are always told when they arrive: 'Be careful, but it is still one of the safest places to be'. And this sort of puts the lie to that, doesn't it?"

Watch your backs, people. Watch your backs ...

Minister's car parking ideas welcomed

THE borough council has welcomed comments by Secretary of State Eric Pickles that over-zealous car parking enforcement undermines town centres.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council already operates its car parks in Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds under laws from before 2008 which were less strict.

Other councils across the country now enforce parking regulations based on new laws which affect police enforcement, highways on street enforcement and off street car parking.

Leader of the borough council, Cllr John Griffiths, said: "We already give our motorists at least the 10 minute parking leeway being proposed, and currently in the news. Partly as a result of this, 99.99% of everyone using our car parks do so without problem or enforcement penalties."

St Edmundsbury works with town centre partners to make sure parking meets the needs of local people.

Every car park in the borough has been awarded the independently assessed Park Mark for their safety, cleanliness, frequent patrols and good maintenance.

Cllr Griffiths said: "Providing the right kind of, and good value, off-street car parks in our borough, is an important part of our role in supporting our town centres, visitors, businesses and the local economy."

NEW START:
Philip Sullivan, Sandra Norris and Cllr Anne Gower at the opening of the Greenwood Close development in Haverhill.

New homes are unveiled at last . . .

A NEW housing scheme has finally been opened in Haverhill.

The development of two, three and four bedroom homes at the town's Greenwood Close was officially opened by Cllr Anne Gower, St Edmundsbury's cabinet member for housing.

There are 13 new properties, including two bungalows, on the site. These replace four Unity flats which were built in the mid 1950s.

Alongside the new homes, which were built by Mansell Balfour Beatty, work was done on car parking and surrounding areas.

In total, the scheme cost £1.6 million, with £300,000 of it coming from a Homes and Communities Agency grant.

Planning permission was granted for the work in 2011.

Drug test kits hit the road

NEW roadside kits will be used to test drivers for drugs in Suffolk.

The police will be using the new equipment after laws, which were introduced last week, made it easier for officers to target drug drivers.

The new legislation, which came into force last Monday, gives officers the power to carry out roadside tests on drivers who are thought to be under the influence of cannabis or cocaine.

NATALIE ROBINSON

They will be able to test for drugs using a saliva swab – and limits will be set very low.

Chief Inspector Chris Spinks, head of the Suffolk Roads Policing Unit, said: "Having legal limits for substances means the process of dealing with offenders and securing prosecutions is less complex than before."

"The new laws combined with the use of the roadside drug tests will allow officers to deal with offenders more effectively.

"It is a minority of people who believe that they are fit to drive whilst under the influence of drugs, but they are putting themselves and others at risk."

He added: "In the same respect as alcohol, any amount of drug, prescribed or otherwise, can impair your ability to drive and increase your chances of causing a collision.

"It is therefore essential that drivers read the instructions of any prescription medication before getting behind the wheel."

Some prescribed drugs which can be abused will also be included, but with high limits to reflect their use as medicines.

Convictions of drug driving carry a minimum 12 month driving ban and a fine of £5,000.

Birdbrook's Tavern ready for Sunday

ADVERTISING FEATURE

FRIENDLY: Book now for Mother's Day

WITH Mother's Day happening this coming Sunday, there's every reason to head over to popular Birdbrook hostelry The Tavern.

Landlady Pat Watts, along with her friendly team, will be delighted to welcome you and your mum – or the whole family – and you can wine and dine in style. If the weather's kind, you can even enjoy the pub's lovely outdoor area, great for kids at this family-friendly destination.

Enjoy some great quality traditional home-cooked food, including a wide selection of vegetarian meals, served not just on Sunday, but six days a week (from Tuesday onwards). The pub serves lunchtime meals from Tuesday to Friday from midday until 2pm, on Saturdays from midday onwards, and on Mother's Day itself, why not spoil your mum with a trip to the delicious carvery, which is served between 12 and 4pm.

If you prefer an evening meal, then dinner is served each Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 6 to 9pm. At weekends you can get a meal any time of day on a Saturday, and take advantage of the tasty choices on the evening menu from 6 to 9 pm, as well as on Sunday.

The Tavern has much more to offer as well. There are regular bingo nights, with no entry charge, and watch out for their great themed music nights, running throughout the year.

Or if you want a venue for your special party – from birthday celebrations to wedding receptions – talk to The Tavern: they will be sure to do you proud.

So with all this great food, great beer and great enter-

the GUIDE

Celia Imrie

CELIA Imrie has been doing ever so well thanks to the current "grey pound" and "silver screen" drive. With an ageing population and retirees having more time to hole up in the cinema (we're very jealous), it's bizarre the film industry hasn't taken note sooner. There's definitely enough demand for more heart-warming, witty movies like Calendar Girls and Quartet to have the big bosses gleefully slapping their hands together.

Who in their right mind would ever turn down a chance to see Maggie Smith and Judi Dench on screen? Exactly, no one.

Imrie, 62, recently told The Guardian: "It's rather fashionable to be my age at the moment. I'm lucky that Calendar Girls and The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel came along when I was the right age to be cast in them."

"If I'd been any younger I'd have missed out."

And she's right, hence why her debut novel, Not Quite Nice, is tapping into the trend too. "I'm writing about my age group, I suppose, much as I'm loath to admit how old I am."

Not Quite Nice, which the Guildford born actress is talking about at Topping & Company Booksellers in Ely, comes with a jacket that has all the hallmarks of the kind of fluffy, sunny read you'd pick up last minute at the airport, but don't let that put you off. Set in the South of France, it's a comedy pivoting on the madcap relationships of a group of British expats in Nice – where Imrie has an apartment of her own. Having starred as the rudely interfering Una in Bridget Jones and as the sex-starved Madge Hardcastle in the Best Exotic Marigold Hotel movies, Imrie knows all about comic characters.

Good thing she's signed a two-book deal then.

DEBUT NOVEL: Celia Imrie, Topping & Company Booksellers, Ely, Tuesday, March 17, at 7.30pm. Tickets £6-£7 from (01353) 645005 / toppingbooks.co.uk.

Appliance of science

CAMBRIDGE Science Festival runs until Sunday, March 22, which means another week and a half of madcap workshops, intriguing talks and crackling, whizzing, booming experiments to get hands-on with, whatever your age.

Here are some highlights:

1. The naked apes

Two hairless comedians asking what it really means to be human.

Thursday 12, CB2 Café, 8pm, £5.50, adults

2. Hands-on biology

Hills Road Sixth Form students will be on hand to help you identify biological specimens, smells and creepy crawlies, try out mirror tracing and discover what an owl had for dinner. Saturday 14, Cambridge Corn Exchange, 10am / Sunday 15, 11am, free, all ages

3. Searching for intelligence in the legs

Robotic legs are far more challenging to build and use than arms, surprisingly. Find out why with Dr Fumiya Iida who'll also be able to tell you whether robots will be running around any time soon. Friday 13, Mill Lane Lecture Rooms, free, over 15s

4. The chemistry of light

Prepare to 'oohh' and 'aahh' over a series of demonstrations about light, courtesy of Dr Peter Wothers. He'll be taking you through the history of humans using and making light work to their advantage, through various experiments. Saturday 14 – Monday 16, Department of Chemistry, BMS Lecture Theatre, University Chemical Laboratory, free, over 8s

5. Festival of the Spoken Nerd: Talk Nerdy To Me

These are geeks with class. Steve Mould is all about quirky experiments that'll make you go 'wow!' while songstress Helen Arney transforms formulae and astounding facts into chuckle-worthy tunes. Saturday 14, Cambridge Union Society, 8pm, £6-£8, adults

6. Enigma and the secret world of code breaking

If you're fascinated by all things code related this is the event for you. Dr James Grime will take you through the history of secret messaging, and give a demonstration on an original Second World War Enigma machine. Saturday 14 March, Mill Lane Lecture Rooms, 10.30am, free, over 8s

7. Looking into how the brain is built

Your brain is the most complex machine known to man, but technology is making steps to catch up. During this talk you'll be able to begin to get to grips with the cellular design of the brain. Saturday 14, Department of Physiology, Development and Neuroscience, Main Lecture Theatre, Physiology Building, 11am, free, over 12s

8. "Betwixt Truth and Truth": debating science and religion at Christ's College, Cambridge

You can't have a science festival without the question of God coming up. Explore how some of the greatest minds on both sides of the issue have wrangled over the finer points of religion versus scientific reason. Saturday 14, Christ's College, Old Library, 10am – 4pm, free, all ages

9. Surgery simulation: conduct your own operation

Don't worry, no-one will be cutting open real bodies, but you might get to take part in a simulated operation, helped along by a real life surgeon prepared to answer all your questions. Sunday 22, Clinical School, Cambridge Biomedical Campus, 11am-4pm, free, over 12s

10. Everest Lab

TV Science Presenter Greg Foot and Medical Show presenter Nick Insley explain what your body goes through in extreme conditions, like the time they trekked to the Everest Base Camp... Sunday 15, Lady Mitchell Hall, Sidgwick Site, 3.45pm, free, over 8s

11. SciScreen: Jurassic Park

Find out all about the science that went into making Jurassic Park – how did they make the dinosaurs look so real?! Monday 16, Arts Picturehouse, Cambridge, 6.30pm, usual film prices apply, over 12s

12. The Naked Scientists on BBC Radio Cambridgeshire

Indulge in a whole day of scientific discovery, with a finale courtesy of The Naked Scientists who fire sausages from vacuum bazookas, sizzle gherkins on an electric chair and measure the speed of light in a microwave oven. Thursday 12, BBC Radio Cambridgeshire, The Mark Forrest Show

Seeking flavours

IT'S all very well joining the 'grow your own' brigade – but what if your tomatoes don't taste sweet, your beans are stringy and your chillis lack punch?

Before you head back to the vegetable racks at the supermarket, take some advice from TV gardening expert James Wong, who has just written RHS Grow For Flavour, a very interesting little tome with tricks in it to make your crops much tastier.

This ebullient botanist and broadcaster tells me that if we water our crops too much they'll lack flavour, that trying some alternative compost mixes may help us taste the difference and that not all crops taste better when they've been just freshly harvested.

The Kew-trained 'plant geek', who is currently ambassador for Fiskars and has a Homegrown Revolution range with Suttons Seeds, is clearly hoping to put the va va boom back into flavour.

"The things you aim to do for fruit may be the exact opposite of what you want to do for some vegetables. To get fruit to be more concentrated and sweeter, you need to reduce the water content of the plant, whereas with salad crops, you don't want dried-out lettuce, you want it to be as full of water as possible.

"However, in general, the less you water and the less you fertilise and the sunnier the spot, the better your crops will taste."

He argues against claims that heirloom varieties always taste better, and dispels myths that you should always defoliate leaves on tomato plants to help ripen their fruit and that liquid feed will lead the way to tasty crops.

He also challenges some traditional methods, advising us to pinch out the top of our tomato plants after they have set their first truss, to pick broad beans when they are tender and eat them like mangetout, and to use a dilute of molasses (which looks like thick, black syrup, available online as a horse supplement) to boost your crops grown in the ground.

This, along with advice on giving your lettuce seedlings a daily stroke to improve their establishment by up to 70%, as well as spritzing your tomato plants with aspirin solution, will make some traditionalists baulk, but he the produce himself.

But he'd avoid growing vegetables which he feels are not worth the time, money or flavour difference compared with supermarket varieties.

"Some crops will taste measurably better if you grow them yourself, such as the right variety of tomato, strawberries and sweetcorn.

"Crops which would taste much the same as the supermarket, if not worse, include celery, most conventional onions and potatoes. If you are going for a regular King Edward, I don't think anyone could tell the difference between a home-grown one and one bought from the supermarket."

He says heirloom varieties aren't necessarily superior.

"When I did my flavour trials, I was astounded by how few heirloom varieties made it to the top. Flavour is largely about genetics but if you have a modern variety bred specifically for flavour, it can out-compete or at least match any heirloom type."

"Take 'Sungold' tomatoes or 'Mara de Bois' strawberries, both famed for knock-out aroma. Their quirky looks and unique taste mean they are often referred to as 'heritage' types, but they were both actually bred as recently as the 1990s."

■ Following the success of Stoke College's vibrant musical extravaganza Stormy Weather on Tuesday, there is another performance today at 7pm.
With a live band and set against the back drop of Shakespeare's The Tempest, join the cast on their journey to an unknown island of magic, betrayal and romance. Will the outcome be resolution or revenge?

■ Join the ever popular Centre Stage Company when they return to the arts centre with The Vicar of Dibley from Thursday, March 19, to Saturday, March 21, at 7.30pm with a matinee at 2.30pm on the Saturday.
Geraldine Grainger is a vicar with a difference. In her own words, a babe with a bob-cut, a magnificent bosom, and a rather irreverent attitude to religion.
Geraldine's arrival is met initially with a mixture of wonder, confusion and horror by the odd-ball locals. Meet them once again as Geraldine battles to win over the power tripping head of the parish council, David Horton and become part of the congregation for Hugo and Alice's wedding!

■ On the cinema front juggling some angry Russians, the British MI5, his impossibly leggy wife and

Yaris in Comic Relief fun

TOYOTA has spread some of its own Comic Relief spirit with a laughing car that responds to being tickled.

The firm created a 'ticklish' Yaris with special sensors to detect tickling, as well as celebrity laughter supplied by Comic Relief legend Lenny Henry.

As the ticklish Toyota travelled from London to Birmingham, Manchester and Glasgow, even the Mr Men's Mr Tickle got in on the act.

A press release written after the mini-tour said: "Everyone has been keen to discover just where the Toyota's tickle points are and enjoy its full repertoire of laughter."

The slice of Red Nose Day genius has helped to put Toyota well on course for its fund-raising target of £1 million.

lion.

And for those people who haven't yet had a chance to tickle the Yaris themselves, it's made more appearances across more Comic Relief fund-raising events, including the Wembley Danceathon on March 8.

Special red noses made for cars (or any other kind of vehicle) are available from Toyota dealers now, and are a great way to show support for great causes across the UK and Africa. All profits from sales of red noses go straight to Comic Relief.

Elsewhere, Toyota is auctioning two cars from its heritage fleet. The 'Gran Turismo' Supra and Picnic Sport Turbo are both unique one-off special projects, and should ignite huge interest from Toyota fans worldwide.

HILARIOUS: Toyota with humour ready for Red Nose Day

MOVER: The Honda Type R

New Type R priced

HONDA has confirmed that the new and much anticipated Honda Type R will be priced sub £30k with the entry level model costing a shade under at £29,995. The GT version will cost an additional £2,300 at £32,295 and will come with a host of extras.

GT drivers will benefit from forward collision warning, traffic sign recognition system, lane departure warning, blind spot information including cross traffic monitor, dual control climate control, rain sensing auto wipers, dusk sensing auto lights, front and rear parking sensors, interior red ambient lighting, high beam support and Honda's new infotainment system, CONNECT, with GARMIN navigation.

The new 2015 Civic Type R will be powered by the most extreme and high-performing engine in the 22-year history.

The Governors of Linton Heights Junior School are looking to appoint an enthusiastic and highly motivated teaching assistant to work with our KS2 pupils. You will have excellent literacy and numeracy skills, be highly organised and effective in supporting children in their learning and have experience of working with children.

This post offers an exciting opportunity to join a friendly and supportive staff dedicated to raising standards of achievement and providing quality education.

Position start date: As soon as possible

Salary: Level 3 PT 18-21 (£17,714-£19,742) Pro rata

Location: Linton Heights Junior School

Contract type: Part Time 20 hours per week

Contract term: Permanent - Term time only - 38 weeks

Applications Close: Monday 23rd March 2015 4pm

Interviews: Wednesday 25th March 2015

Safeguarding information

Linton Heights is fully committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of our children and we expect all staff and volunteers to share the same commitment. The above post will be subject to enhanced DBS checks, satisfactory references and will be exempt from the provisions of the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974

How to apply - information for applicants

Please contact the school office for an application pack on 01223 892210 or by email to office@lintonheights.cambs.sch.uk

About us

Linton Heights Junior School is a two form entry school at the heart of a warm and vibrant community in South Cambridgeshire. We currently have 223 pupils in school. We are a highly inclusive school and benefit tremendously from the diversity of the community we serve. We believe whole heartedly in the holistic development of our pupils - academically, physically, socially and emotionally.

Most recent Ofsted Inspection June 2013, judged as 'Good'.

W S C WEST SUFFOLK COLLEGE

Lecturer in Applied Science (Physics Specialism)

A competitive salary, 12 weeks holiday, plus teachers' pension are part of the package offered.

- Are you naturally curious about the world?
- Do you want to inspire the same curiosity in next generation?
- Did you love the film 'The Theory of Everything'?

If you can answer yes to at least two of these questions, then we want to hear from you! Due to expansion, an exciting opportunity has arisen within the Applied and Social Science Department for a Lecturer in Applied Science with a Physics Specialism.

If you're smart, enthusiastic, professional and degree qualified and like working in a progressive and high achieving environment, then this role is for you. A teaching qualification is desired but not essential, but knowledge of the STEM agenda and a genuine passion for the science industry and physics is.

West Suffolk College is an ambitious FE and HE College, set in the historical, bustling town of Bury St Edmunds. Half hour from Cambridge and Ipswich and an hour from London, it offers the best in Suffolk country cosmopolitan living. We benefit from a Principal with a PhD in High Energy Particle Physics and Science is a fully supportive and embraced subject area.

Closing date: 27 March 2015. Interview date: 13 April 2015.

Milne hits double to secure win

TWO early goals from Jonny Milne set Haverhill Borough on course for a 4-1 victory over Leiston reserves in the Thurlow Nunn League, First Division.

Borough had drawn 0-0 away to Team Bury last Saturday, but returned to winning ways with a resounding home success.

Both the hosts and the visitors wasted chances in the first two minutes of the game, but Borough took the lead after eight minutes when a deep free kick was headed back to Milne on the edge of the penalty area and he fired powerfully past Ben Vincent in the Leiston goal.

Six minutes later, Milne doubled the advantage after sweeping home a loose ball from another free kick.

Debutant goalkeeper Graham Smith made a fine save to keep Borough's lead intact early into the second half, parrying a shot direct from a free kick to safety, and after Lee Hurkett was felled in the box, with seven minutes left in the game Borough added to their lead.

Harry Halls' spot kick was saved by Vincent, although the ball rolled straight out to Ryan Weaver to score his 15th goal of the season.

Chris Thomas finally got some reward for an evening of toil in the lone front man role two minutes later, controlling a pass from substitute Kieran O'Neill on his chest and then firing past Vincent, before Leiston's Paulo Vernanden completed the scoring.

Haverhill Rovers secured a point in a goalless draw at home to Thetford Town in the Premier Division last Saturday.

Tyrone Alleyne went closest for either team in the first half, having a shot cleared away from the Thetford goal.

Thetford went closest to scoring after the break, although goalkeeper Jack Cherry was able to prevent them from going ahead.

Sanders in fine form to take medal

LEONARD Sanders carded nett 65 to clinch victory in Haverhill men's March weekend medal.

Sanders won Division Three as well, with Kelvin Ellam second on 73 and Paul Chapman third on 74.

Division One honours went to Andy Gage after he scored 70.

Charlie Hudson took second in Division One on countback from Jason West after both had scored 71.

Overall runner-up Allen O'Donoghue won Division Two with 69. Roger Hartley was second on countback from Gary Cowley, with both scoring 70.

The midweek medal was won by Andy Fish, who scored 36 points after the format was switched to stableford.

Fish won Division One as well, finishing two points clear of Terry Lyons. Eric Armstrong was third on 32.

Roger Hartley topped Division Two with 33, while Steve Brooks took second on countback from John Stokes after they each scored 32.

Division Three saw Howard Wood win with 32. Martin Stephenson was runner-up on 29 and Ian Andrew was one point behind him in third.

Linda Alexander won the ladies' midweek medal after carding nett 79, nine shots clear of runner-up Mary Sail.

Anna Fairhead triumphed in the Saturday medal with nett 82. Lyn Fish was one back in second and Catie Heathfield took third with 87.

Marriott on target for promoted twos

MADDIE Marriott notched twice as Haverhill II beat City of Peterborough IV 6-0 and secured automatic promotion in East Women's League, Division 4NW(S).

Helen Coe, Helen Salter, Emily Page-Blair and Holly McGerty also netted for the team as they celebrated going up by taking their goals tally for the season to an incredible 101.

They have three games left to secure the title and complete the campaign with a 100 per cent record.

In 3NW(S), Haverhill's first team drew 1-1 with City of Peterborough III.

They were a goal to the good at half time as Vicky Steed found the back of the net from a short corner.

It was a real battle in the second half and Haverhill defended well, but their opponents found a way through to equalise.
